

So Now You Are a Leader

Regina, SK
November 20-21, 2019

Overview:

The complexities of the workplace, the need to build strong and lasting relationships with clients inside and outside the organization, and the expectation to perform as managers/leaders can be overbearing on new and seasoned managers. IPMA-Canada is pleased to offer a two-day interactive workshop that will assist managers to find their way through these mine fields to become a strong collaborator, advocate and supporter of needed change.

This workshop will cover diversity, generational gaps, employee relations, relationship building and change/transition issues that challenge management and leadership everyday as they are working to meet the organizational objectives. It is filled with experiential learning and the appropriate level of theory to help you be successful as a leader.

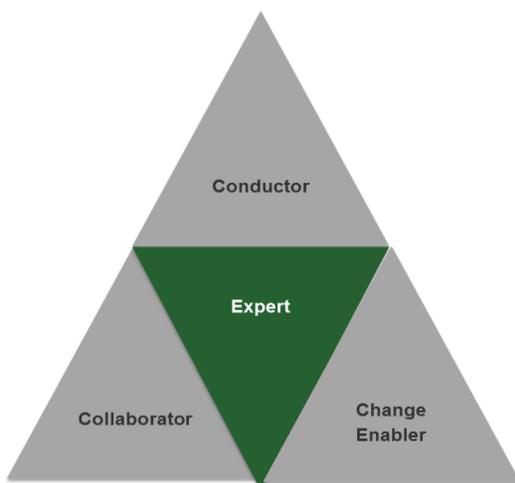

The 2 days of learning is designed to ensure that participants are actively engaged in learning. Participants will take away effective and practical tested tools to assist their day to day work.
